DEMOCRATS CONFER ON CURRENCY BILL

Amendment to Prohibit Interlocking Directorates in Banking Institutions.

WASHINGTON, July amendment to the Glass-Owen currency bill, to prohibit interlocking directorates in banking institutions, was proposed at the conference of Democrats of the house committee today. The plan offered by Representative Wingo of Arkansas went over to the next meeting, after brief discussion in the committee. Early in the day the conference defeated, 8 to 3, another proposal by Representative Wingo that bank stock be deposited in the new regional reserve bank, under a competitive system, the banks offering the highest rate to be accepted.

The committee struck out the section to permit individual banks, in time of stress, to get direct discounts from the regional reserve banks upon securities recognized as "stock ex-change collateral," and also eliminated a provision exempting notes or bills issued on government, state, county or municipal bonds from the proof "earrying or trading in stocks, bonds or other securities."

The conference extended the maturity period of paper rediscountable un-der the law, from forty-five to forty
